Jinxed?

Latest layoff nothing new for Pontoon man

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH — Joe Doyle was only half kidding when he said he is a jinx.

When McDonnell Douglas laid him off Friday, it wasn't a new experience. Doyle said he watched three previous employers go down the tubes and just figured it was bound to happen here as well.

In 1962, Doyle went to work at Dura Corp. in Paris, Ky., as a tool-and-die maker and stayed for the next 27½ years. "But orders started falling off and it got to the point where I told them if they didn't get me more money for my tool room I would start looking for a job somewhere else," he said.

So one Friday, Doyle went on vacation and on Monday he went to work for Rockwell International's automotive plant in nearby Winchester, Ky.

"I just stayed on vacation from Dura Corp. for a couple of weeks to see how it worked out. After that I told Dura Corp. I had quit," he said.

Things continued to decline after Doyle left Dura and about six years later the plant closed forever.

The new job lasted a little more than three years. In early 1962, a drop in the automotive market caused massive layoffs at the Rockwell plant and Doyle was out on the street.

Doyle's next job was at a Rockwell aircraft plant in Columbus, Ohio. After he left, Rockwell's Winchester plant never regained its place in the market.

"It's still open, but just barely," he said. "I think it just fills in when other plants can't keep up with orders."

In 1967, Rockwell's Columbus plant closed down and the company sold the building and grounds. Doyle was back in the job market.

He had what looked like a sure thing at Grumman Aircraft in Long Island, but the company started laying off just before he was hired.

"Later, I heard from them, wanting to know what I was doing. Somehow, I guess, they got me listed as an employee in their files," Doyle said. "My wife said, 'Ask them where your check is.'"

Doyle ended up at McDonnell Douglas in St. Louis and moved to Pontoon Beach. Doyle said he heard about the job from his friend, Jimmy Moore, also of Pontoon Beach. Doyle said Moore has had the same kind of career luck that he has.

Joe Doyle — unemployed again

"When one of us heard of a place, we'd call the other," Doyle said. "Maybe we're both jinxes."

On Friday, Doyle started sending out resumes. Since he is 60 years old, Doyle said, he knows a lot of the resumes will be automatically tossed aside, but "I'm not really ready to retire."

Doyle owns his home in Pontoon Beach and still owns his houses in Columbus and Paris. If it eventually appears that retirement is his only choice, Doyle said he figures he might as well stay here.

"Pontoon Beach is all right with me," he said. "I've got a good house; it's not the best, (See JINXED, Page 8A)

Aldermen feud over committee revisions

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Reorganization of the City Council took place Tuesday night, but not without heated controversy.

First Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish drew the ire of several fellow aldermen by recommending that existing committee memberships be completely revised.

"We used to draw names out of a hat" to determine who would serve on which committee, Skubish said during the council meeting. "Committee members and chairmen need to remember they are expendable. They can be replaced."

Skubish said some committee members "are wise guys who think they know everything," refusing to listen to others' input.

Seventh Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen told Skubish he should bring the topic up at the committee organization meeting, scheduled immediately following the council meeting.

"No, I want this brought out now, while the public is watching (in the audience and on television)," Skubish said.

Second Ward Alderman Jim Miller said, "Committee mem-

Venice project proposed

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Kerr Island is ripe for development, businessman D.E. "Ed" Hilton, a former Venice resident, believes.

A proposal for a shopping complex was presented prior to Tuesday's meeting of the Venice City Council and a review of the plans continued into the regular session.

Kerr Island, north of the McKinley Bridge, extends west from Illinois 3 to the Mississippi River. It is not an island.

Participation and support by local government officials and private citizens is necessary for such a development to succeed, Hilton stressed.

About 30 years ago, Hilton was the developer of the Bissell Street Apartments, a private housing complex in Venice.

Public and official support for the estimated $7½ million Kerr Island project was urged by other proponents addressing the aldermen.

An evaluation of development potential and strategies for the Venice community was prepared by Evans & Hopkins of Oak Park, near Chicago. The firm specializes in management consulting services, accounting, taxes and systems development.

Hilton said control of all land in the area would be essential to make Kerr Island Plaza succeed.

Roughly 45 acres lies within the proposed building area, which also is part of the Venice Enterprise Zone. The property is privately owned by individuals.

Mayor Tyrone Echols and the aldermen listened quietly, for the most part, to a report presented by Lorean G. Evans, president, and James W. Hopkins, vice president and executive consultant of the consulting firm.

Meetings act effect debated

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Officials of area taxing bodies said they doubt a proposed rewrite of the Illinois Open Meetings Act will have any real effect on the way their boards conduct business.

The Illinois Municipal League is waging all-out war against the proposed legislation, saying it would make it too difficult for city councils and village boards to hold closed sessions.

The Illinois House's State Government Administration Committee last week passed the bill on to the full House by an 11-0 vote.

The Municipal League's specific objections are to a requirement to tape-record closed sessions so the tapes would be available for "in-camera review" by a prosecutor or judge, a clause that requires a three-fifths vote among board or council members before they could go into closed session and a provision calling for $500 fines for every member of a public body participating in an illegal closed meeting.

The fines would have to be paid by the individuals, not the governmental body.

A poll of a mayor, a city clerk, a school superintendent and a city attorney, each from a different taxing body, revealed a variety of opinions of the provisions, but they all agreed on one thing.

Even if the legislation passes intact, their boards will not change their basic practices concerning closed meetings or hold any more or any fewer closed sessions.

Asked about taping closed sessions, Collinsville City Clerk Lou Jackstadt said, "I don't believe in it. Tapes can be altered."

He said the idea of a closed meeting is to allow the members to feel free to discuss things among themselves without fear. He said people won't discuss things so freely if they are being recorded.

Jackstadt scoffed at the idea the tapes were for "in-camera review" only. "Just ask (former President Richard) Nixon about in-house tapes."

Granite City Attorney Mark Goldenberg said the city clerk already attends closed sessions and the record of what transpired is put on permanent

Police dog bite upsets suspect

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

MADISON — David Maple, who has been sitting in Madison County Jail since Jan. 4, has a beef against the Madison Police Department.

His beef isn't that he's innocent of the charge of possession of a controlled substance, although Maple maintains that, too.

"It's that when the (Madison) police popped me they just let that police dog chew on my leg. They just let him keep chewing away," Maple said.

According to Maple, he was hanging around outside Garasche Homes when his problems started.

"I flagged this car down and when he stopped he asked me do I got some 20s ($20 packets of crack cocaine)," Maple said.

"Hey, it's the (housing) projects, so of course I say 'Yes, I know where to get some' and tell them to pull into the alley."

Maple explained he was waiting for the equivalent of a finder's fee.

Unfortunately for Maple, the car he picked was occupied by an off-duty Granite City police officer.

"The officer had a walkie-talkie and he called us," said Madison Police Lt. Paul Bargiel.

"We got there and Maple started running. We turned the dog loose to apprehend Maple and the dog

"did."

Maple said that when he saw the police car he was already running toward a buddy's house and just saw no reason to stop.

"Then this officer with a dog pulls a pistol and yells at me to drop to the ground," Maple said.

"I get on my hands and knees and this dog runs over, runs around me and grabs my leg. And he starts chewing."

"The officer says he still, but I can't with the dog chewing on my leg and me trying to pull it out of his mouth."

Bargiel said the scene wasn't nearly that dramatic.

"The problem with a dog, and what Mr. Maple didn't seem to understand, is that if you fall to the ground and stay there, the dog will come over, lay down beside you and growl at you," Bargiel said. "But if you start wiggling and squirming like you're trying to get up and away the dog will bite."

Maple contends that, after the dog was finally pulled off, the police searched him and found nothing. Later, he said, crack cocaine was found near where the struggle took place and police said they saw him drop it.

Bargiel said Maple will get his day in court to make his case.

After he was arrested, Maple was taken by police to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment of the dog bite.

Maple said he is an ex-convict.

Armed forces celebration set to roll

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The U.S. Army's Apache and Cobra attack helicopters — used effectively in Operation Desert Storm — may be inspected firsthand at the traditional Armed Forces Day celebration here.

The celebration will take place tomorrow and Saturday at the Melvin Price U.S. Army Support Center, Niedringhaus Avenue and Illinois 3.

The awe-inspiring observation will have as its theme "Eternal Vigilance."

The public is invited to view the opening ceremonies at 1 p.m. Friday and then watch parachutists make a precision jump.

Visitors also can inspect specialized military equipment, including helicopters and weap-only.

Those attending may patronize vendor booths, view demonstrations by Military Police K-9 working dogs from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., view the interior of an M-1 tank and examine a 108 self-propelled howitzer from Fort Riley, Kan.

In general, everyone is invited to help the Army celebrate and have a good time, a spokesman said.

Food and beverages, a tailgate flea market sale and a thrift-shop opening also are planned for the two-day event.

Col. Garrett C. Starr, chief of staff of the Aviation Systems Command (AVSCOM), the Support Center's higher echelon, will preside at tomorrow's opening ceremonies at 1 p.m.

The colors will be posted, the recipient of a "spouse of the year" award will be announced, and scholarships will be presented to two high school seniors.

The first parachute drop will be made at 1:30 p.m. Friday, with the "chutists landing in a designated area in the vicinity of the ceremonial grounds and near the equipment displays.

Displays and booths will be centered in the same area, across from the motor pool near the heliport pad.

An information booth will be operating on the base and signs will provide directions for parking and activities.

The Support Center will be open for the public to drive into the base on both days, said Post Sgt. Major James McGlocklin.

Last year, more than 2,000 visitors were hosted at the base on Armed Forces Day.

Friday's hours are from 1 to 4 p.m., with two parachute drops scheduled by the St. Louis Parachute Club.

On Saturday, the displays will be open from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., with three parachute drops take

Alias cited in 30-year sentence

By David Milgoya
Staff writer

A Granite City man who expected to receive a 15-year prison term for robbing a McDonald's restaurant in East St. Louis instead was given a 30-year sentence Tuesday.

The longer term was ordered after prosecutors learned he used an alias to hide a criminal past dating back to 1972.

Darrell Bolden, 35, of the 2300 block of Benton Street originally told authorities his name was Demetrius Tucker when he was arrested Dec. 2 after robbing the fast-food store. The robbery occurred just 15 months into his parole from prison on another armed robbery charge.

In March, prosecutors agreed to recommend a 15-year prison term on the new armed robbery charge if Bolden had no prior felony convictions.

Bolden pleaded guilty March 18 and a charge of aggravated assault was dismissed as part of the plea agreement.

When prosecutors learned Bolden was using an alias and found he had been in prison for similar crimes, St. Clair County Assistant State's Attorney Judy Dalan asked for a 30-year prison term.

Assistant Public Defender Karen Craig requested a 14-year sentence, but Circuit Judge Lloyd Karmeier opted for the 30-year term.

the maximum sentence allowed without an extended sentence.

"I was afraid to do more time," Bolden told Karmeier. "I have peace now and I'm all right now. I sought help and I found it."

While in jail, Bolden wrote letters to Karmeier saying he had been under the influence of drugs at the time of the robbery.

"I believe you have found peace with yourself, but you owe a debt to society," Karmeier said.

Records show Bolden was released from prison Sept. 18, 1989, after serving less than half of a 12-year sentence for armed robbery in St. Clair County.

Bolden also has been sentenced to a total of 18 years in prison on various gun-related crimes since 1972, mostly in Tennessee, prosecutors said.

In the McDonald's holdup, Bolden pulled a gun on a clerk in the restaurant, located at 801 St. Louis Ave., after ordering food, court records show.

Bolden ran out the door with $80 and six gold rings he robbed from the clerk.

But Bolden didn't make it past the restaurant's parking lot. A security guard, Gene McAfee, ordered him to stop.

Instead of halting, Bolden fired his gun several times, and the guard then shot Bolden once in the right leg, ending his attempt to escape arrest.

VA offering scholarships for nurse therapy students; deadline is set for May 28

The United States Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is announcing the availability of scholarships for nursing, occupational therapy or physical therapy students, authorized for the 1991-92 school year.

Awards are for students in the final year of an associate degree in nursing program; third- and fourth-year baccalaureate programs in nursing, occupational therapy and physical therapy; and master's degree nursing programs.

Recipients receive tuition, educational expenses and a monthly stipend of $621.

In exchange, participants agree to serve as a full-time registered nurse, or an occupational or physical therapist in a VA medical center for a period of one year for each year of scholarship support. The maximum length of a scholarship award is two years.

Members of the selected ready reserves who meet the same educational requirements can earn a $400 stipend while receiving the Reserve GI Bill under a recently instituted program, it was announced.

Requests for applications may be made to the chief of nursing service at any VA medical center.

Applications may also be requested from the dean of nursing, director of occupational or physical therapy, or the financial aid administrator at schools with accredited programs.

Applications must be postmarked no later than May 28.

Additional information is available by writing to the VA Health Professional Scholarship Program (14322), 810 Vermont Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20420 or by calling (202) 535-7327.

7 named in felony warrants issued by county

Seven area residents were named in felony warrants issued during the week of April 29 by Madison County State's Attorney William Haine. Those named include:

—Sherrill L. Wiley, 29, of the 200 block of Hill Street, Madison, was charged with two counts of forgery. In April 15 incident, Wiley allegedly attempted to cash two checks at the Broadway Currency Exchange in Venice. Totaling nearly $600, the checks were made against the account of Pandos Enterprises. Bond was set at $25,000.

—A Greenville, Mo., man was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond on a count of theft under $300 second subsequent offense. In an April 27 incident, Peter E. Peterson, 25, allegedly took cast iron fittings from O'Dell's New and Used Steel Products in Madison. According to the warrant, Peterson was previously convicted of stealing over $150 in St. Louis County Court.

—James A. Rutter, 33, of the 2200 block of Lee Avenue was charged with one count of aggravated battery. On April 30, Rutter allegedly struck a man on the head with a pipe. Bond was set at $25,000.

—John Steven Hamm, 36, of the 2200 block of Delmar Avenue was charged with one count of aggravated battery. In an April 26 incident, Hamm allegedly struck his wife with his fists. Bond was set at $15,000.

—Cedric L. McDougle, 25, of Madison was charged with one count of robbery. On May 1, McDougle allegedly robbed another man of his wallet with the use of force. McDougle was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

—Zachary Taylor, 26, of the 300 block of Terry Street, Madison, was charged with one count each of residential burglary and criminal damage to property over $300. In a May 2 incident, Taylor allegedly broke into a room at the Round Table Motor Lodge in Collinsville. Taylor was being held at the Madison County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

—A Troy man was being held in the Madison County Jail after Venice police sought a warrant against him for alleged unlawful possession of less than 15 grams of cocaine. John A. Adams, 21, of the 100 block of South Main Street allegedly possessed the drug in a May 3 incident.

Four charges filed against Granite City woman

Tracy M. Hayes-Chung, 21, of the 2100 block of Edison Avenue was charged with two counts of battery, one count of disorderly conduct and one count of resisting arrest following an incident in the 2100 block of Missouri Avenue at 12:40 a.m. May 6.

Officers were dispatched to the Missouri Avenue address in reference to a woman retrieving her property and child, but were met by Chung-Ve-Giang in the 2000 block of Missouri.

Chung told officers that his wife and another man had entered his home, and that he fled in fear after the two allegedly threatened him.

Officers continued to the address where they saw a taxi leaving. Hayes-Chung and a man were in the cab, it was alleged.

As officers questioned Hayes-Chung, she allegedly rushed her husband and hit him in the face with her fist.

When officers tried to restrain her, she allegedly struck an officer, and continued to resist as she was being restrained.

Hayes-Chung also spat on an officer and on her husband, according to the report. She was arrested and lodged pending $358 bail.

Residential burglary

Joyce A. Willmore of the 2600 block of East 27th Street called police at 1:37 p.m. May 3 after she arrived home and found the back door standing open and the door jamb splintered.

A patrolman searched the residence, but no suspects were found inside.

Taken from the house were a video cassette recorder valued at $300, a compact disc player worth $150, 30 compact discs of classical and jazz music valued at $450, a gold add-a-bead necklace holding 16 beads worth $500, and a pearl necklace.

Man booked for battery

Gregory Mark Potillo, 34, of the 2500 block of Waterman Avenue was arrested for battery at 6 p.m. May 3 while sitting in a vehicle outside the home of Patricia Potillo, 32, in the 2200 block of Delmar Avenue.

Police went to the residence in response to a disturbance call. Patricia Potillo reported her estranged husband was returning a child and wanted to enter the house.

When she refused, Patricia Potillo said, he shoved her and pushed into the residence. A witness near the scene also gave an account of the incident to police.

Gregory Potillo was taken to police headquarters, charged and then released on $102 bail, pending a hearing.

Named in four charges

During a traffic stop at Madison and Niedringhaus avenues at 11:30 p.m. May 3, Katherine Elizabeth Derryberry, 22, of Fairway Estates, Granite City, was found to have two warrants on file against her.

She was served a Pontoon Beach warrant, alleging failure to appear on a charge of speeding, and a St. Clair County warrant, alleging failure to appear on a stop sign violation.

Derryberry was also charged with driving with an expired registration sticker and not having mandatory insurance. She posted $154 bail and was released.

Street sweeper hits car

Neither driver was hurt when a city street sweeper struck the rear of a car at 10:10 a.m. May 3.

David M. Nordstrom, 46, of the 3100 block of Mockingbird Lane said he was traveling west on Jill Avenue approaching Nameoki Road in an Elgin Police car street sweeper when the brakes apparently failed.

Lisa K. James, 27, of the 3600 block of Terrace Lane reported she was seated in her 1990 Toyota Camry on Jill Avenue, stopped at the traffic signal light, when the light changed.

Before she could drive forward, the sweeper hit the Toyota in the rear.

County serves warrant

Brenda Elaine Sanders, 36, of Hazelcrest, Ill., was picked up by a Madison County sheriff's deputy in early May on a Granite City warrant, alleging failure to appear on a charge of retail theft. She posted bond and was released.

Money woes beset juvenile center

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — As some improvements are made at the Madison County Juvenile Detention Home, county officials have begun to discuss options for the 22-year-old building.

The improvements are being made to bring the site up to state Department of Corrections requirements.

One option is to build a new 40-room building at a cost of more than $3 million.

According to Robert Stille, D-Edwardsville, chairman of the Health Institutions Committee of the Madison County Board, building a new structure would be almost $1 million cheaper than renovating the current one, which has 21 rooms.

Renovating would have a large amount of labor costs that you wouldn't have in a new facility," Stille said.

A third option would be to accept only Madison County residents at the juvenile home, which would mean a loss in revenue.

A fourth option is to close the site.

"We'd rather not close it but I don't know where we'd get the money to build a $4 million facility," Stille said.

It's a thought that chills Steve Bowker, who has worked at the juvenile home for 13 years and has been its superintendent for the last three years.

"Now is not the time to do that," Bowker said. "The kids we used to deal with maybe didn't need to be here, but now the kids we have need to be off the street."

Bowker said today's crimes, most often sex offenses or involving firearms, are far more serious than those of a decade ago — which were usually vandalism and shoplifting.

"We've got a lot more heavy hitters," Bowker said.

Bowker said he has heard nothing regarding the violations the home was cited for and given until January 1990 to correct.

The home was cited by the state for crowding, for lacking a sink and commode in each room, and for heating and cooling problems.

The detention home has received most of those citations for years, Bowker said. But some work to rectify them is under way.

The heating and cooling system is working better after some repairs but will ultimately need to be replaced.

The state also requires a restroom outside the home's classroom and work to comply with that requirement is being done.

As for adding such plumbing to each room, Bowker said it's unlikely.

"We're working on things we can afford to do," he said, adding that the plumbing project would cost more than $400,000, almost half of the home's $900,000 annual budget.

It would also open the home up to more problems, where detainees could stuff blankets into the commodes or rig water faucets to result in flooding, Bowker said. He said it's a requirement many new facilities have ignored for the same reasons.

"You've got to remember the kind of kids we're dealing with here," Bowker said.

Closing the home would mean placing juvenile offenders in other centers around the state.

Besides Madison County, St. Clair County has the only other county detention site south of Springfield. And like Madison, it is usually full.

Bowker said he has refused as many as 35 youths a month from other counties seeking juvenile placement, a practice Madison County would have to adopt should the home close.

"They just have to call and call and call to see if someone has a bed to put a kid in," Bowker said.

"And boarders are the first ones to get bounced if you need the space for one of your county's kids."

Without the home, the $300,000 levied annually in taxes would stop and boarding, transportation, staff and other costs would have to be absorbed by the county's general fund.

Bowker already charges other counties $50 per day for juveniles, up from $40 two years ago. The charge will likely rise to $75 in 1992, he said.

"I'm supposed to generate $130,000 a year in per diem charges," Bowker said. "It's really kind of crazy because the jail doesn't have to generate income. They have the same expenses we do."

But funds have to come from somewhere and taxpayers are the most likely targets.

"We can't go much farther without increasing the tax levy or finding other alternative income," Bowker said. The tax levy has been at its maximum level for 15 of the 22 years the home has operated.

The home has also seen $10,000 to $20,000 increases in operating costs for utilities, salaries and food during each of those years, Bowker said.

More financial trouble could come with the loss of a long-time tenant. The Educational Therapy Center, which rents part of the building for its group home, is seeking a bigger site, Bowker said.

The juvenile home would lose $40,000 to $50,000 from that move.

Bowker said he didn't know what he could do with the space but it would not be suitable for use by the juvenile home. Starting a group home is one thought.

It is something I've kicked around," Bowker said. "It could work well or it could be a whole new set of problems."

Probation for police obstruction

EDWARDSVILLE — A 20-year-old Venice man was sentenced to one year of probation Tuesday on one count of obstructing a peace officer.

Christopher A. Logan, of the 100 block of Abbott Street, was originally charged with obstruction of justice in the prosecution of Leon J. Hayes, 17, of Granite City on a murder charge.

Hayes was convicted of first-degree murder in the Oct. 5 stabbing death of "David" Sumner, 21, of Alton. Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner found Hayes guilty April 3 following a bench trial. Keshner will sentence Hayes at 10 a.m. today.

Logan was one of three youths who had traveled to "the Caves," a popular teen hang-out near the Sam Vadalabene Bicycle Trail in Alton, with Hayes the night of the stabbing.

The stabbing occurred on the parking lot of the bike trail after Hayes had tried to break up a fight between Logan and Sumner.

Colossians 3:11 "... but Christ is all ..."

There can never be any doubt in our minds that Christ is all. He is the Son of God. He was sacrificed for the sins of the world. He was obedient to the will of the Father. He has this testimony: He pleased God.

Now we must hold Christ in the same esteem as God did. He is sufficient for us. He is all we need. He is the way, the truth, and the life.

As St. Augustine said, "Christ is not valued at all unless He be valued above all."

Let Him be your all. Today.

Fitness trail returns

Finally, after a year-long hiatus in which supporters were busy pursuing other things, the Wilson Park fitness trail has returned as a fund-raising campaign theme.

It is a worthy project that merits your support. The $80,000 trail, still $60,000 short of the necessary funds, will be built around the 1.4-mile perimeter of the park, along the path now used by thousands of joggers and walkers each week. The all-weather asphalt track would be 8 feet wide and would replace the frequently muddy quagmire that greets visitors to the park.

Anyone interested in volunteering to help raise funds or to organize one of the events should call the Granite City Park District office at 877-3059 or chairman Dennis Wilmsmeyer at 876-1091.

EPA needs state's help

Granite City area state representatives would do well to heed a plea from a local EPA official and see what they can do to speed up the study and cleanup of the contaminated Jemison-Wright site on West 22nd Street.

The Environmental Protection Agency has been attempting to latch onto nearly $1 million in money freed up by recently concluded bankruptcy proceedings against Jemison-Wright. That money, however, has remained as elusive as the cleanup itself.

EPA has encountered delays in getting the money in part due to changes in the state administration. That's where people like Sam Wolf and Sam Vadalabene could help. Both are veterans of the state Legislature and are effective at playing emissary on local issues.

Although the EPA money would go toward a study that would be only a fraction of the overall cleanup cost, any progress made at this stage would make the overall cleanup cheaper in the long run. As it stands now, the cleanup is estimated to cost more than $3 million.

The Jemison-Wright site could become important for other reasons. The federal EPA is working with a Virginia firm that tests soil to determine the best ways to treat contamination. It happens that the Virginia firm is interested in the Granite City site because the soil here is said to have the right components for such testing.

Regardless of what the tests conclude, the best-case scenario will be for the EPA to get a hold of its share of the bankruptcy money and get this cleanup off the ground.

Quinn takes it seriously

We certainly hope Pat Quinn doesn't wear out his welcome as new state of Illinois treasurer.

As can be noted from his visit to Granite City during last week's Law Day breakfast, Quinn is taking what many consider a lackluster office and using it to launch or advocate a series of consumer initiatives.

Those proposals include a bill that would regulate fees at currency exchange facilities; a financial consumer advocacy group that would help "unravel the mysteries" of insurance and banking industries; "plain language laws" that call for contracts to be written in easy to understand language; whistle blower laws that would crack down on government waste; and laws that would reward home buyers and those continuing education past the secondary level.

In many ways Quinn, though a rogue Democrat, reminds of a younger Jim Edgar, who raised the secretary of state's office to a new level by advocating literacy and drunken driving laws during the '80s.

It is a pleasure to see somebody do something besides quietly occupy the treasurer's office.

Keep it up, Pat.

America's heart begins to fibrillate over Dan Quayle

Monday morning, all across America, tabletop conversation was not about the heart condition of George Bush.

It was: "Oh no."

While our President sat quietly playing video games with his grandkids and discussing national and international security with top advisers (or, do I have that backward?), Dan Quayle bashers were huddling with worry.

Here is a man, they said, object of ridicule since 1988, who stands on the brink of being acting President. A man who could call the National Guard to action with one phone call. Who could change domestic policy overnight by inviting homeless people to live in the White House. Who could establish new food trends by telling the world that he hates tapioca pudding.

Here is a man who, in the blink of an eye, could forever change foreign policy by simply telling the Israeli prime minister, "I will not invest my money in the West Bank."

I'm not a devout Quayle basher. I'm for giving every man the benefit of the doubt. Even if our vice president does answer the trivia question — "Who is the most forgotten of the Marx brothers?" — by answering, "Karl Marx," who am I to say that he might not make a good President?

As Ronald Reagan has shown us, intellect is not a leading prerequisite for becoming commander-in-chief. One only needs money. And Marilyn Quayle has shown glimmers of real hope since being Second Lady.

A good President must also choose his department heads wisely. George Bush has done fairly well with some of his choices — such as James Baker as secretary of state and well-remembered John Sununu as chief of staff.

One can only guess what Dan Quayle might do with his top officers. Given his propensity for confusion, he would start after Henry Kissinger for secretary of state and end up with Don Kessinger instead. (He might not get much of an advisor, but he'd end up with a heckuva shortstop.)

He could also go after experience and appoint Neal Bush as secretary of the treasury. Dick Butkus as secretary of defense; and Larry Rice as head of Housing and Urban Development.

He could also call on my wife for a cabinet position. She's pretty good with interiors.

As it turns out, George Bush seems to be OK for the moment, so the only shock about recent America must worry about is the one it will continue to have each time Bush isn't feeling too well.

On that, add this to the rest of the chorus:

TIF area improves village at no risk

To the editor:

When the Chouteau Trace Tax Incremental Financing District was formed, we listened with both our hearts and our heads. You should study the whole program and try to understand that our TIF is not the same as Granite City's.

Because the banks of this area were not willing to risk any more funds in Pontoon Beach after the failure of the original Timberlake Development, B.T.L. Enterprise (St. Louis) came to Pontoon Beach asking for our help to develop a 68-acre tract of land next to Timberlake.

We had no funds to promote development, but we knew that Pontoon Beach must develop to survive, and do it without higher taxes.

We all opposed any program or bonds that would put the village or its residents at risk. In December 1986, I, Lou Whitell, not Lucas, contacted the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs' Office of Urban Assistance for advice and was introduced to tax increment financing issues. I know all of this, they would not have loaned the money to the village by purchasing bonds.

The bond ordinance states that the trustee notifies the bondholders if funds are not available, and the interest is accrued until the development's assessed value increases. You should know that taxpayers won't be asked because we had no general obligation.

Pontoon Beach is finished with its TIF district. There are no more improvements to be made. The land, other than the village's land, is privately owned. The only obligation of the Village of Pontoon Beach has at this point is that the village treasurer receives the tax moneys from the county and pays them over to the trustee.

LOUIS WHITSELL

request was made by Carl Hackney for a local auto dealer who has agreed to purchase a 5-acre tract for $40,000 per acre located next to Chouteau Trace in Timberlake.

We knew in 1987 that land was selling on Chain of Rocks Road and Highway 111 for two businesses there for $70,442 per acre and $62,500 per acre with no utilities. The bond sale included $28,473.24 per acre for 20.37 acres.

You said Pontoon now faces a first payment on the bonds and we do not see eye to eye. We have always known.

We knew all along, and so did the trustee and the bondholders. If you would get a copy of the payment schedule, you will learn that it will take about nine years to build out 100 percent of the TIF district.

Property tax is assessed on a building fully after its third year. After the sixth year, the district will have an assessed value of $3,800,000 and will be paying all interest due.

The tax increment produced by the development pays off the bonds. If the bondholders didn't know all of this, they would not have loaned the money to the village by purchasing bonds.

The bond ordinance states that the trustee notifies the bondholders if funds are not available, and the interest is accrued until the development's assessed value increases. You should know that taxpayers won't be asked because we had no general obligation.

Board failing to act on village's behalf

To the editor:

Question: Why is a person voted into office?

Answer: Because the voters believe that individual will do what's best for the community.

If the people of Pontoon Beach can find time to go to the village meetings, then they will not only see, but also hear, how some of the board members, who are elected officials, act. I believe they will be surprised by the end of the meeting.

At the meeting of April 23, Mayor Wilson made new appointments to fill positions that had expired. He nominated Robert Fowler as new treasurer.

Nobody asked to review her qualifications, nor did anyone even ask what they were. When the time came to vote, the vote was 4 against and 2 for.

How in the world can anyone vote no or someone up for an appointment if they don't even take the time to see if he or she qualifies?

Instead of a discussion of Charlotte's qualifications, there was an argument about filling this position. It seemed to me the board members were more interested in arguing than they were in Charlotte's qualifications.

I do not think the board was fair to Charlotte, or to the people of Pontoon. There is so much tension with the board that you not only feel it, but you can see it.

I think that all personal feelings should be left outside the board meeting, and the board should do what it was voted into office to do — what is best for Pontoon.

Without harmony and full cooperation of the board, nothing good is going to happen here in Pontoon.

It doesn't matter who makes a motion; if it's good for Pontoon, then the board members should agree with it, or at least discuss or check it out before voting.

Also, when a person asks the board a question, I believe that the board has an obligation to answer the question.

I asked a question that night, "Why was the TIF hurting anything?" Trustee Robert Douglas stood up and made a motion to adjourn the meeting.

I wanted an answer saying why the board felt it necessary to dissolve the Chouteau Trace TIF (tax increment financing) district. I never did get a satisfactory answer.

Trustee Douglas and I had a heated discussion once before, and we do not see eye to eye. But that is beside the point: I had a legitimate question.

It doesn't matter who asks a question. If he or she asks one, then the board should answer it. If it can't be answered, then the meeting will explain that it can't be answered.

No way should a trustee put a motion on the table to adjourn a meeting till all questions are answered.

Seems to me that either Douglas did not want my question answered or he could not answer it, or maybe he is letting his dislike for me enter into the meeting.

Another lady asked a question in reference to Neighborhood Watch signs, and Douglas was very rude to her. There was no reason for his talking rude to her, since all she did was ask a simple question.

I don't know who he thinks he is, but I think he should take a class or two in how to deal with and talk to the public.

Pontoon election disgrace assailed

To the editor:

I'm writing in regard to the letter printed in the Press-Record about the rights of the handicapped and disabled when it comes to voting.

I agree that they, along with everyone else, have the right to vote as long as they know who or what they are voting for. From the way I heard what took place in Nameoki Precincts 9 and 10 was a total disgrace.

What rights did these people have? From what I was told, when they came from a very reliable source, some of these people didn't want to vote. They wanted to go home and eat dinner. Some, if not most, didn't even understand what they were there for. Tell me, where were their rights?

It seems to me that these innocent people were totally stripped of their rights. Who was responsible for this disgraceful situation?

Those responsible know who they are, believe I know and many, many others do also. It's a shame that it has come to the point that one has to pick between politics or humanity.

Firefighters, Red Cross are praised

To the editor:

Recently a vacant house in the 2200 block of Lee Avenue burned. Not only did the fire department respond, but so did the American Red Cross.

Only one Red Cross volunteer, Charles Holman, was where he could respond. So he came alone to help our firemen.

He brought a cooler full of juice and some snacks so the firemen could refresh themselves. A couple of people in the neighborhood helped out by keeping the cups filled and by buying ice.

This is a wonderful thing the Red Cross is doing, trying to make such a hard job a little easier, especially in hot weather.

Keep up the good work. The fire department did an excellent job also.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn "Ted" (Leola) Tucker celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Wednesday evening in the Caseyville Health Care Center. They were married May 1, 1931, in the Tr City Park Tabernacle by the late Rev. Nola West. Celebrating with them were their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George (Glenna) Staggs and Mr. and Mrs. Carl (Carol) Cuccatti, and other relatives, including Angela Knight and daughter Jessica, Phillip Cuccatti, Tonya Cuccatti, Darla Staggs, Christal Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford (Vicki) Taylor, Maxine Green, Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Veda) McClelland, Linda Bone, and granddaughter, Kelly, Ruby Pyles and grandchildren, Amanda Jason and Josh, Sally Bauer and Betty Knapp.

Matthew Salzman has returned home after vacationing in Miami, Fla. He was accompanied by his father, Paul Salzman, and his family, Tammy Salzman and daughters, Brandy and Brittany.

On Saturday evening, May 11, the Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1800 Pontoon Road, will be hosting a Singing, sponsored by the Madison County Baptist Association. There will be several well known singers and musical groups participating. If you would like to be on the program, contact Roger Wilson at 931-3783. The service of praise and worship will begin at 7 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

Members of the T.E.L. Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church of Granite City met on March 23 at the church. Fruit baskets were made and delivered to eight shut-in hospitals and nursing home residents. The class then met at Ravennell's for lunch and fellowship. A guest, Laura (Shanks) Modrusis, was welcomed.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Angel) Finck and daughter Kaitlyn visited their mother, Mrs. Nancy Finck, and other relatives in Miami last week.

PFC Craig Sykes, who is stationed with the Marines in Vietnam, spent the weekend visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George (Carolyn) Sykes, and brother and sister, George and Karen. While he was home, his birthday was celebrated with a big family dinner.

The ladies of the First Baptist Church of Granite City visited the Colman Nursing Home on Thursday evening and presented lap pads to six patients who were celebrating birthdays. The ladies visiting were Freda Jordan, Nita Howard, Mary Reed, Velma Rice, Elmer Stagner, Karen Hart, Jill Cowan and daughter Evelyn Bowles.

Dear Mom
Thank you for being their when I needed you. Thank you for cooking my meals, cleaning my clothes, and teaching me new things. And that's just naming a few. And I know I may not be the best, but you are the best. You always made me feel like I was because you always told me I could be whatever I wanted to be in life. And whenever I come home with a bad grade you always comfort me and say "If that's the best you can do then that's fine, just do better next time." I really appreciate all you do for me, and I always will. And I wish just like to say that out of all the mothers in the world I'm glad God picked you to be mine.

I could write you a poem or letter.

What is special about your mother?

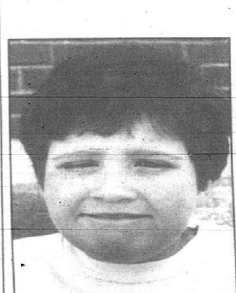

Brandon Rollins: "She takes care of us. When we're sick, she takes us to the doctor and gets medicine. She also lets me pick out my own video games at the store."

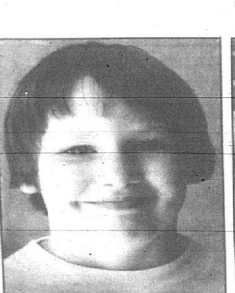

Brandi Janitch: "She loves me and helps me. When I'm sad she gives me lots of hugs and kisses or takes me for ice cream."

Matt Salzman: "Everything about my mom is special. She cleans my room, does my laundry, cooks my supper and sometimes even makes my bed. She also took me to Florida."

Christopher Stephens: "Mom is always helpful and very nice. She helps me clean my room."

Kate Hollis: "She takes care of my hamster and my little sister. Mom is extra special and she gives us lots of hugs and kisses."

A retirement dinner was held for Charles Stanfil of St. Louis by his wife, Martha on his retirement from Union Electric after 32 1/2 years of service. He was a foreman in the meter-reading department at the time of his leaving.

The party was held at the honoree's home. Attending were Mary Moore of Madison, Mr. and Mrs. George Stanfil and children George, Steven and Daniel of Marshville, Mo., Pam and Jessica Darst of St. Peters, Mo., Dave Payne of St. Charles, Jack and Nancy O'Dell of Collinsville, Earl and Connie Stanfil of St. Charles, Nancy Stanfil of Kansas City, Leslie Stanfil of St. Louis and Edith Ortiger of St. Charles.

His co-workers and personnel of Union Electric also hosted a dinner for Charles and James Dean on their retirement. One hundred attended the dinner at Petros in St. Louis.

The honoree is a former Madison resident and attended local schools, graduating from Madison High.

John and Sharon Gagich of Troy are announcing the arrival of a daughter, Lauren Michelle, born April 9. She weighed 7 pounds, 13 ounces and was 21 inches long. She joins one brother Bryan.

Maternal grandparents are Edward and Sophie Leleniewski of Madison. Maternal great-grandmother, Helen Merski of Edwardsville; paternal grandparents, John and Barbara Gagich of Granite City, and paternal great-grandfather Ellis Mathews of Granite City.

A bridal shower for Karen Hurlbrink was held by the Bellemeade Gilman and Retirees at Ravennell's on Sunday, May 5 at 5 p.m.

After dinner, gifts and flowers were presented to the honoree. Norma Hurlbrink mother of the bride-to-be served desert.

Attending were Gerry Mendez, Violet Holder, Kathy Dohnal, Mary Ann Pare, Juanita Rosenberg, Carol Robertson, Wanda Carmack and Neil Talley.

Miss Hurlbrink will become the bride of Mark Richey on June 8 at Holy Family Church.

The Ladies Democratic Club of Madison held its annual barbecue on Saturday, April 27, at the Country Home. Mexican music was played. Cooks for the event were Bert Armour, Bob Barnard, John Serwan, Mike Vrabec, John Hamm, Paul Sifton and John Papa.

Everyone remaining at the end was invited to the home of Carol and John Hamm to relax in the pool and hot tub.

Attending were Popeye and Rosemary Patterson, George and Margaret Amisch, Jim and Rosemary Caffrey, Bert and Eleanor Armour, John Lucas, Tina Cochran, Laura Cochran, Jay, Beth and Angie Hamm and

Don't tax you; don't tax me; tax that fellow hiding behind the tree

(Pardon the headline. It's an old saying about how to achieve fair taxation.)

It's understandable that James Nowlan, new Illinois Taxpayers' Federation president, spoke out this week against unfair and illegal tax levies. He wants to do a good job for hard-pressed taxpayers like you and me.

He unveiled a number of proposals for new laws, and some of them might be a good idea. But I think a lot of the current unfairness wouldn't occur if all 102 counties had officials as efficient and fair as Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

MISS BOWLES SPOKE to Granite City Rotarians on Tuesday and it was clear that nearly all improper real estate levies can be headed off at the pass — detected and blocked by alert local officials.

When governing boards fail to levy correctly or sufficiently, they sometimes ask for a county remedy — a mathematical adjustment. It sounds trivial but it would be an illegal levy by persons vested with administrative tive but not levying power. She solves such matters by just saying "no."

ARE LEVIES INFLATED? Yes they are. But I got the impression from Evelyn that this practice is not inappropriate or unethical, since laws governing the taxing cycle create a guessing game.

When levies must be filed in December (or September in the case of townships and road/bridge districts), it is not yet known what a district's new assessment base will total.

Most tax rates are governed by exact limits, stemming from laws or elections. It is her duty to extend no taxes beyond those limits. But it is not wrong for boards to levy optimistically, if not-revenue is needed for vital equipment or services.

Only when assessments and multipliers become final — the following spring — is it known how large a levy can be funded. And in any case, the rate extension is not going to exceed the legal maximum, thanks to watchdogs like Miss Bowles.

Bill Winter

A MORE MEANINGFUL issue raised by the Taxpayers' Federation is whether tax protesters, usually big corporations, should be the only ones that benefit when a court rules that a particular tax was excessive.

As the law now stands, those who don't protest (and probably can't afford to hire a stable of lawyers) do not get any property taxes returned to them.

The Federation favors enacting a class-action remedy when a rate objection succeeds, enabling all taxpayers to benefit. But those needing services might not benefit if taxing bodies' income is curtailed, so the issue won't be easy for Illinois lawmakers to resolve.

FOR THE RECORD, the clerk is not only the chief keeper of records and the arbiter of elections, but also the one who performs many of the detailed tasks related to property taxes.

She doesn't set spending policy but she does enforce revenue rules and procedures.

Collection in 1991 will start soon, based on the 1990 levies and Madison County's 1990 assessed valuation of $1,710,701,591, an increase of $69,174,157.

OUR COUNTY has avoided an assessment multiplier every year since 1962, Miss Bowles told the Rotary Club.

This kind of stability has been widely praised. But to achieve it, the county orders assessment multipliers for the 24 townships.

The latter multipliers amount to only a few percentage points, but they are cumulative and cause a significant increase as the years go by.

ber Board of Review in older days. The members didn't have much to do because they didn't undertake a lot of work or study.

But today they are kept busy conducting hearings and determining property values scientifically. The members must be valuations experts and their knowledge is tested by the state.

With the Illinois Revenue Department monitoring arm's-length property sales to determine "full, fair cash value," the Board of Review must satisfy the state that township and county assessing officials are keeping pace with actual market trends.

A BILLION DOLLARS in illegal levies is mentioned in the Federation's report, prepared by Ronald Pear, former Chicago city comptroller.

Whether that estimate is correct is difficult to know. But the group clearly is right in urging strict adherence to the law, including levying precisely. If rates are utilized for various purposes only to pool the money and then transfer it to other accounts, taxpayers aren't getting the results they expect. With local-level agencies getting $9 billion in property taxes every year, there obviously is a lot at stake. The law should be followed.

IT MIGHT HELP if the Assessor's office gave levies dates to a single one-month period.

That way, everyone could concentrate for several weeks on what their taxing districts are planning.

Another proposed law would require tax levy notices and public budget hearings. But hearings are usually held now, and few of them attract much public response.

THE MOST EXPLOSIVE of the ideas calls for a "sunset review" in which districts would go out of existence if they couldn't convince voters they ought to continue to operate.

That would provide the ultimate tax control, leaving nobody to levy or collect your money. But don't hold your breath until that happens.

Couple returns after winter in Florida

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

When a husband and wife have their wills prepared, it is usually recommended that each spouse have his own will. Generally the wills in this situation provide that when the first spouse dies, all of this person's property will pass to the surviving spouse. The question sometimes arises in these situations regarding the status of the wills if the parties obtain a divorce after the wills are signed.

Illinois law provides that a dissolution of marriage (divorce) revokes any gift under the will to the deceased person's former spouse. This is true as long as the will was signed before the entry of the divorce itself. Therefore, there may be no need to have new wills prepared in the event the husband and wife are divorced since the former spouse usually would not receive anything under the terms of the original will.

In one Illinois case, a husband signed his will in 1959. According to the terms of the will, he left all of his property to his wife. The will also provided that if the wife died before him, all of his property would pass to his wife's son.

After the will was signed, the husband and wife obtained a divorce. The question arose as to who would receive his property after his death.

Applying Illinois law to the facts of this case, the Appellate Court held that the divorce destroyed any interest that the ex-spouse had under the will. Therefore, she received nothing at the time of her former husband's death. The trial court had gone one step further and ruled that the divorce actually revoked the will, and that therefore the stepson also was to receive nothing under the will. The Appellate Court, however, reversed this holding, and found that the divorce did not destroy the will and did not revoke it. The will remained in effect, but the former wife received nothing because of the divorce. The stepson in this case inherited all of the deceased person's property.

They brush your hair
They kiss you goodnight
If you ask they say "You might"
They love you
They really, really do
They can knit you a sweater,
A lot better than Aunt Lou;
See they do, love you.
Happy Mother's Day, for every Mother, Aunt and Grandmother
in the world.

Jaime Rushing

The following students are from the Marshall School fifth grade class of Nancy Sanders-Miles

Dear Mom,
I would like to thank you for everything you have done for me. You have always been nice to me and cheered me up when I was sad. You always take me everywhere to my soccer game, baseball games, or different places. That's why I love you mom.

Love, Justin Williamson

Mother's are special because they stay by our sides. When we're in trouble or sick, they are always there. They know when something is bothering us. My mom is caring and loving. She was there when Mr. Grote, my gym teacher, passed away. She stays by my side in everything I do. Our mothers are wonderful.

Salina Morlen

Dear Mom,
I think you're the best Mom in the world. You make my breakfast and my bed. I love you because you are nice to me. You are special because you love me and help me when I'm upset.

Your Son, Brian Rushing

I think moms are the most special people in the world
because they gave life to us.
Some moms are mean but it is really the children who make them that way. They often have to be stern to help us do what is best.

Steven Moss

Dear Ma,
You are a very special mom to me. You buy me clothes to wear, you take care of me when I am sick, you buy Nintendo games for my Nintendo, you do all this stuff for me. That is why I think Mother's Day is nice like you but you are sweeter.

Love, Jenny Gainer

Dear Mom,
I love you because sometimes you give me money and because you love me. Thanks for having me and for caring about me when I'm sick or hurt. I love you, mom.

Your son, Joe Skinner

Dear Mom,
You are special mom. You are nice, kind and I love you. I missed you when you were in the hospital. When I say I hate you, I really do love you. I'm just mad at you. I love you.

Your son, Jerry Clay

Dear Mom,
I want to thank you for always being there for me. Mom, you are so special to me and I'll always love you. You give me what I need. Please don't ever change.

Love, Christina Finley

Dear Mom,
I think Mother's Day is a day
for children to thank their mothers. Mothers do many wonderful things for us. They take care of us when we are sick, when we get hurt, when we are upset and when we need food, clothing, etc.
Thank you, Mom, for everything.

Your son, Genard Finley

Dear Mother,
I think your special because of the things you do. When I'm gone on a camping trip, you clean my messy room, move my furniture around, and buy my favorite food — strawberries! When my fourteen year old sister fights with me you just say
"Stop!" and don't spank me like other moms would.

Your son, Joseph Klug

I think my mother is special because she buys me stuff and she gives me money. She is kind and sweet. I think Mother's Day is a great time to think of your mother and all the things she does for you.

Lee Thomas

Dear Mom,
I think your special because you buy me Nintendo tapes and you love me. You take me places and buy me stuff. You take care of me when I'm hurt. Thanks,
Mom, for everything.

Your son, David Colp

Mother's
I think mothers are special because they give us food, a home, and a place to sleep.
When you are upset, you're down, and you need someone to talk to, they are there.

Lisa Rodgers

My mom is special because she gives me things. On May 5, she got me a dog. The same day
she took me to the carnival in St. Louis. That's why my mom is special.

Rodger Burney

Dear Mom,
I think you are special because you take care of me in a special way. You keep me clean and you try to show your love to me in a good way. I love you Mom.

Your first born, Boyd Keelin

I always remember my mom or Mother's Day or any other day because she is very special in my life. What I like about my mom is she gives me a place to sleep, food to eat and puts clothes on my back. Mothers are always there for you when you need them. I love my mom with all my heart and don't want her to forget it.

Tabatha Martin

where ever she goes even to the mall. If I had a choice to trade her in or to keep her, it would be to keep her, because I love her. When I am upset, she will always make me feel better.

Your Daughter, Tanya Leisner

Dear Mom,
I love you because you give me
my needs like clothes, shelter and loving care. I just wrote to say that all kids should love their mothers no matter what. Even if they are sometimes mean to you.

Your son, Chris Lemp

My mom is real nice and fun.
She will help you when you need help on your homework. She will buy you stuff when she goes to the store. She will take me

I will always remember you on Mother's Day because you are a special person in my life. I love you mom for different reasons.
But what I love you for most is I have a problem you are always there to solve it? Happy Mother's Day.

Love Always, Michelle Burgin

record, so he couldn't see why anyone should be afraid of a tape recorder.

Goldenberg, referring to his defense of University of Illinois assistant basketball coach Jimmie Collins in hearings before the National Collegiate Athletic Association, said, "I've been on the stump all over the country saying the NCAA should record its hearings, so I couldn't very well argue differently here. A tape recording gives me a more realistic picture of what went on."

School Superintendent Gib Walmsey of Granite City District 9 said he objected to recording the sessions because the equipment required. He said tapes are always a problem because the recorder doesn't pick up some things some things can't be understood.

"Unless the state is going to provide funds to get enough equipment for a microphone on every member, I have a real difficulty with it," Walmsey said.

Madison Mayor John Bellico said he had no problem with taping closed sessions.

"In no way will the Municipal League would object to taping," he said. "But anytime we go into closed session it is for a specific purpose and we just get in and out of it," he said.

Bellico also said he saw nothing wrong with requiring a three-fifths majority vote to close a meeting. Madison has eight aldermen, so five would have to agree to go into a closed session, he said.

"As it is, I can't imagine us going into closed session if even one or two members were strongly opposed," Bellico said. "The three-fifths is no problem."

Goldenberg also said he had no problem with the three-fifths requirement.

"If there are not nine of Granite City's 14 aldermen who think we should close a session, we should probably re-evaluate the issue and see if it can be resolved in open session," he said.

Walmsey said he sees the three-fifths requirement as a reasonable one.

"Anytime there is a decision to go into a closed session it is important that the decision has been carefully thought out," he said. "This is just another check and balance to change our current practice."

Jackstadt, however, said he believes a simple majority vote is sufficient.

"We have five members, so three's a quorum and that's more than enough," he said.

Jackstadt also said he opposes the idea of fining members who participate in an "illegally closed" session.

"If the members knew they were doing it they wouldn't," he said. "No one is going to do it on purpose, so the violations you'd find would not be world-shaking."

Goldenberg said he doubted the provision for fining individuals would ever pass in the legislature, but said he didn't necessarily object to the idea. "It might mean (closed sessions) are taken more seriously."

Bellico also said he doubted the provision for fines would pass, but "if it does, it does. (Open meeting requirements) are set up by law, we abide by them. Citizens have to abide by the law or they are fined. So why shouldn't city government members?"

Walmsey said he has "great concerns" about fining individuals, "especially if it is a person who voted against going into closed session in the first place."

He said he objects to placing a financial liability on public officials, especially school board members who serve without pay. But if all three provisions passed, he said, he would not change any of his past practices. "If we close a session, it is done in good faith. We take in legal counsel and, if we are advised during a discussion that we are about to overstep proper bounds, we come out."

Jackstadt said he doesn't believe in allowing a government body to take any action in a closed session, but said closed discussions are important.

"I was (Collinsville) mayor from '51 to '55 and if we had had these requirements then, we never would have gotten out of debt," he said.

"Behind closed doors we did a lot of shouting and name-calling and two aldermen had what might be considered a fight, but we got the thing settled."

"I just don't think (open meetings regulations) help. The ones who are trying to get around the rules now will still figure out how to get around the rules if they change. So it just makes more cumbersome on everybody else."

Goldenberg said he believes government business should be done in the open, but said a government body's responsibility to close a session is just as important.

"I don't like going to a negotiating meeting only to find out the other side already knows what I've been authorized to offer," Goldenberg said. "If we are talking about things like a labor settlement or a potential lawsuit settlement, the members have a fiduciary responsibility to the citizens to take the discussion into a closed session. Otherwise, it's like playing cards with your hand out in the open."

Rep. Barbara Flynn Currie, Des Moines, the bill's sponsor, said discussions are being held with the League to see if their differences can be ironed out. "But, to be honest, I don't think we could ever satisfy the Municipal League completely," Currie said. "If it was up to me, I think they would rather we had no Open Meetings Act at all."

The bill lists 18 specific conditions under which public bodies would be allowed to call closed meetings, including collective bargaining negotiations, personnel hiring and firing, and student disciplinary cases.

While many of the exceptions listed in Currie's bill mirror those alluded to in the Act, the bill is more specific about what sorts of issues could be discussed behind closed doors.

In addition, the bill states that the exceptions must be "strictly interpreted," which Currie says would remove much of the discretion public officials enjoy in deciding when to lock council chamber doors.

Critics of the current law have said vague language leaves it open to abuse by unscrupulous public officials.

Paul F. West IV West

Paul F. West IV, 28, of Madison, died at 8:24 p.m. Monday, May 7, 1991, pronounced dead at his home by Deputy Coroner Roger Smith.

Mr. West was born in Minot, N.D., on May 19, 1962. He lived in the Madison and Granite City area for eight years. Prior to that time he lived in Fort Campbell, Ky., while serving in the Army from 1980-83.

Visitation was held Wednesday at Irwin Chapel, 3960 Maryville Road, where services were conducted at 11 a.m. today by the Rev. Harley Langley. A 1:30 p.m. graveside service will be held today at Shepherd of the Hills Cemetery in Barnhart, Mo.

King

Pearl M. King, 70, of Billings, Mo., formerly of Granite City, died at 2:30 p.m. Monday, May 6, 1991, in the emergency room at Lester E. Cox Hospital South, in Billings.

Mrs. King was born Oct. 27, 1920, in Van Buren, Mo. She was a secretary for an insurance and real estate office and was a charter member of the VFW Auxiliary in Republic, Mo.

Survivors include three sons, Gary King and Larry King, both of Billings, and Terry King of Fordland, Mo.; two daughters, Thresa McMurray of Troy, Ill.; two stepdaughters, Beatrice Heithaus and Shirley Terbrook, both of Troy, Mo.; two grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Cletus King, and her parents, Charles and Nora Meador.

There was no visitation. Services will be held at 2 p.m. today at Meadors Funeral Home, Republic, with Major and Mrs. Jacob Bender officiating. Burial will be at Evergreen Cemetery in Republic.

Questions were asked about jobs, job training, taxes and financing. The answers were not always specific and future meetings are planned to explore the goals of the council and developers in more depth.

The proposal said a top city official should be named to work closely with the developer.

Projected is a commercial development phase to be expanded to single-family residences constructed in the future, Hilton said.

"The concept here is that the city must make it work and the general public must make it work. There is a need here for single-family housing for the middle class," Hilton said.

"People go to Fairview Heights and Granite City to spend their money. Why can't we control the revenue and bring it here?"

Evans said those compiling the report agree the potential exists for developing a neighborhood shopping center on the proposed site. There are more than 20,000 residents in nearby communities with an estimated income of between $18 million and $20 million, she said.

Traffic using Illinois 37 and Missouri residents would be a key factor in creating the town center concept development, it was said.

A shopping center of 22,000 square feet would include a supermarket, a drugstore, commercial bank, gasoline service station, hardware store, dry cleaning, beauty supply store/salon, video store, professional services, legal, dental, accounting, food, laundromat, shoe store and state tourism center.

Alderman Silvio Franklin asked if a banking institution has been contacted regarding financing the proposal.

"Yes," Hilton replied. "I prefer to leave the name anonymous until we establish some kind of relationship."

Alderman John Henry Williams said he was not in putting together the proposal because he believes in Venice, he said.

ing place.

The Army's award-winning Golden Knights parachute team had other commitments due to Operation Desert Storm and was unable to perform here this year, the sergeant major said.

Two demonstrations by Army dogs will be presented on Friday and three on Saturday.

The Armed Forces Museum is planning a vehicle display. Also, a simulation of a 17th-century encampment will be staged, McGilchrist said.

The Department of Defense arranged for the M-1 tank and 155mm self-propelled howitzer to be loaned to Fort Riley. Helicopters are coming from different units across the country, he said.

Most of the equipment exhibited here will be the same type used in forcing Iraqi forces out of Kuwait, except for the UH-1 Huey helicopter and a OH-6 light helicopter; the latter two will be seen here but were not utilized in Desert Storm.

liams questioned the need for all 45 acres, if the shopping area could be constructed on 15 acres.

Walmsey said he advised caution. "We've had developer gambling developers come in here before, give their property and never come back again," he said. All Kerr Island has much to offer for other development, he said.

Valentine said about job opportunities if the complex is built. "Will the people in the city get a chance for jobs?"

"In order to have the personnel available to hire, you have to develop Job Training Partnership Act involvement to train the people," Evans replied.

Between 175 and 250 permanent jobs could be created and from 400 to 500 other jobs, Evans said.

"You hit the point I was making, Valentine replied."

There are very few parcels of remaining ground available on the Missouri side of the river and the next generation of growth will be coming, an architect with the development group commented.

How the infrastructure for such a commercial development would be provided was not explored in the open meeting.

"This is an opportunity to see what can be done," Williams said. "Are people looking for (city) to float a bond issue? Most of that property is owned by individuals, so how can it benefit us and the city of Venice? We have to bring in revenue and we need jobs," he said.

"If developers, architects and others are going to take a risk, and if the project has some meaning for Venice, we may have to use some form of eminent domain (site condemnation) proposal," Hilton said.

Hilton said he spent about $9,000 in putting together the proposal because he believes in Venice, he said.

but it serves my purpose."

But Doyle plans to keep working if he can. Right now, he said, it looks like he has a good chance of being hired by Boeing Corp. at its plant in Wichita, Kan.

"So I guess Boeing is the next one to go down the tubes," he said. "I may not really believe that, but I don't think I'm going to buy a house there right away, either."

The U.S. Coast Guard will display one of its small river-patrol boats and the Army's Troop Support Command will have water purification and power generator units on exhibit.

The Army Community Service, Non-Commissioned Officers' Association and other organizations, including recruiting officers from each of the armed services, will have booths at the celebration.

bership requires continuity and expertise." He said he was opposed to drawing names from a hat.

"To shake up committees in that manner would not be productive," Miller said.

"Committee is the issue," Second Ward Alderman Virgil Kambarian agreed. "Committee members" spend a lot of time learning how the committees work.

Kambarian said it would be unwise to throw away one of his own, expertise already established.

Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Bassen was anxious to get on with business.

"If the issue (Skubish is concerned with) is the public's awareness, why don't we just keep the cameras rolling for committee appointments?" Brown suggested.

Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk, senior alderman, added, "In the past, the council drew names, but there are some committees... Downtown, for example, has done an excellent job, working with (Economic Development) Director Alan Orban and making contacts all over the country."

Fisk said it would not be in the best interest of the city to waste that kind of experience.

Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Bassen made a motion to adjourn the council meeting, but to keep the television cameras operating.

"It is everybody's business to know what is going on," Skubish said, and the meeting was adjourned.

Worthen immediately stood up and suggested the existing committee members be allowed to retain their positions if they desire.

"I agree seniority must account for something," Miller said, "but I would also suggest we consider deleting some committees if they are no longer necessary."

Miller also suggested the council consider creating new committees to address issues that have recently become prominent.

"We have established... negotations no longer require a standing committee to make a report every meeting," Miller said. "I doubt if City Hall and Buildings is any longer an effective committee."

It was decided to eliminate the Neighborhood Committee.

"If we are going to delete committees, why don't we expand existing committees?" Skubish asked.

Brown said, "Trying to make a living and also trying to hold down this part-time, 40-hour per week job (alderman). I don't know if I can afford to serve on too many more committees."

Fisk opened the proceedings by announcing the committees that have openings.

As the committees were being established, Skubish resigned from every one of his appointments, and did not ask to have his name included for consideration for any of the openings.

When the appointments were finished, and Skubish was on no committees, he said, "Some of you think I can't contribute to this city because I am old... But I can contribute a hell of a lot to Granite City."

Fisk, pointing out, Skubish chose not to include his name in any of the drawings.

"Don't blame it on the rest of the city, because you put yourself in that position," Fisk said.

When he could serve on a lot of committees, Skubish said, noting his experience.

Fisk offered to give up one of his positions to Skubish, if he wanted it.

Miller said, "If (Skubish) doesn't want to be a productive member of this council... that's his prerogative. It would be like we're begging him to be on a committee."

Skubish subsequently accepted appointments to the Industrial Search, City Hall and Buildings, and Ordinance committees.

The Finance Committee, consisting of Walter Milton, Worthen and Kambarian, remained intact, as none of those members wished to give up their positions; nor did the Insurance Committee members (Ginny O Bear, Miller and Judy Whitaker).

The Cable Television, Inter-governmental, Legal and Legislative Committee (consisting of Brown, Partney and O Bear) and the Downtown Committee (consisting of Partney and Worthen) also remained as before.

A list of the other committees and their members follows:

Police — Skubish, O Bear and Juanita Crawley

Streets and Alleys — Milton, Brown and Partney

Fire, Water and Ambulance — Kambarian, Whitaker and Crites

Traffic and Lights — Brown, Candler and Crites

Buildings — Skubish, Milton and Crawley

Sanitation — Whitaker, Andy Timko and Crawley

Pollution Plant — Fisk, Timko and Candler

Planning and Zoning — Worthen, Kambarian and Fisk

Partney noted that the Industrial Search and Economic Development Committee had consisted of all aldermen who wished to serve in the past, but recommended that the committee be made into a formal committee. An ordinance to that effect is expected to be drawn up and presented.

Members of the new Industrial Search Committee are Fisk, Skubish and Timko.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse is expected to announce the appointed chairmen of the committees at the next council meeting, May 21.

Divorces

The marriages of the following couples have been dissolved by the Madison County Third Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

Bruce G. Pope, 39, and Patricia (Barton) Pope, 32, both of Granite City; married April 20, 1980.

William Ashworth, 27, of Tammis, Ill., and Kathleen (Watkins) Ashworth, 24, of Granite City; married Nov. 6, 1983.

Trivia

In 1990 Illinois had a trade balance with Canada of plus $537,558,000. Canada's trade balance with the U.S. was minus $5,139,684,000 in goods while importing $4,602,126,000. Illinois' biggest exports to Canada were automobiles and automobile chassis ($517,328,000), while its biggest import from Canada was autos ($985,340,000).

Georgia Tech to host students

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

MADISON — Academic dividends are paying off this school year for at least 11 young people at Madison Middle School. They will attend Georgia Institute of Technology this summer.

Other students also will receive a bonus and through the program will spend a day at Six Flags Over Mid-America for becoming more academically responsible during the 1990-91 school year.

All the students were involved in M.A.R.K. (Madisonians Achieving Relevant Knowledge), a two-part incentive program.

Through the program we are hoping that students will pay more attention to academics, rather than nonsense, and apply themselves," explained Middle School Principal Betty Gabryshak.

The first segment of the program involves students who are capable but not achieving acceptable levels in school and are producing work below a "C" average.

Gabryshak announced earlier in the school year that if these pupils improved their grades to at least a "C," they could take part in an outing to Six Flags.

The names of students attaining a higher level of achievement will be announced on May 30.

Teachers are currently evaluating the status of students to obtain an estimate of how many will be eligible to go on the Six Flags field trip, Gabryshak said.

"I don't believe there are as many going as I would like to see," she said.

With the help of Dr. Lydia Howard of Georgia Institute of Technology, widely known as Georgia Tech, several openings in a series of summer workshops at the respected engineering university were made possible for the Madison students.

Dr. Howard is assistant dean for Minority Affairs in the College of Engineering at Georgia Tech. She will be guest speaker at graduation exercises at Madison Middle School on Friday, May 31.

Students attaining academic recognition and selected to attend the Georgia Tech summer program include:

Engineering Workshop — Celena Brawley, top eighth grade student; Michael Pritchard, Kelina Suggs and J'Quilla Boyd, all eighth grade students; and Lateasha Haynes, seventh grade.

Space Camp — Christopher Spain and Etrick Lucas, both eighth grade; and Erin Turner and Delia Bennett, both in the sixth grade.

Basketball Camp — Anthony Smith and James Belford, both in the seventh grade.

All those chosen to participate in the university's summer program are B-plus students. The exception is Celena Brawley, who holds an A-minus average.

Georgia Tech has agreed to pay all expenses of students attending the workshops and camps, including housing, food, books and tuition.

Transportation costs to Atlanta, however, must be paid by the participants.

Donations to help fund transportation expenses are being solicited from local business firms. Several teachers at the Middle School and the principal also have contributed money toward cost of the trip.

Eleven Madison students will be attending the summer program which starts July 27 and continues through Aug. 3.

"We hope to rent a van to take all 11 children to Atlanta," Gabryshak said.

Two Madison School District faculty members — Albert Collins and Gladys Steptoe — will accompany the local students and have been hired by Georgia Tech as counselors, the principal said.

'New Me Jamboree' to begin May 25

On the surface, "The New Me Jamboree" may look like a lot of fun and games, but underneath the frivolity, each child will be learning.

That is the promise by sponsors of a six-week program being offered at the Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa St. Youngsters will learn nutrition and physical fitness by participating in talks, games and exercise activities.

The program will run on six consecutive Saturdays beginning May 25, with each class lasting 90 minutes, from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. The charge for the program is $20.

It is designed to help out-of-shape and overweight children between the ages of eight and 12 get back into shape and build self-esteem, while helping active youngsters to stay in shape.

"Even if your child is fit right now, there's no guarantee he or she will be that way in 20 or 30 years," said Jim Chiappa, director of the Wellness Center.

"Besides teaching kids a healthier lifestyle, we want to make the class as much fun as possible for them." And there won't be any homework involved.

Julie Bugnitz, a registered dietitian at SEMC, and Nancy Owens, a health educator/fitness instructor at the Wellness Center, will teach the program in tandem.

"We'll work on improving their balance, coordination, endurance, flexibility and strength," Owens said. "Now is the time to develop healthy habits so they will carry on through your child's teen-age years and into adulthood."

Pre-registration is required, at 796-3WEL.

Baker camp June 10-14

Granite City High School soccer coach Gene Baker will hold his annual Warrior Camp from June 10-14 on the girls varsity soccer field.

The camp will last from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. each day and is open for boys and girls ages 7-18. Pro and college players will provide instruction with guidance from high school coaches.

The schedule each day will call for technical training from 9-10 a.m., individual skill competition from 10:11 a.m. instructional game film and tactical training from 11 a.m.-noon, and competitive games from noon to 1 p.m. Each camper will receive a soccer game ball, a camp shirt, practice water bottle, use of a kickboard, use of a JUGGS machine and a chance to compete for camp prizes.

The cost is $110 per player, with family rates available. For more information, contact Baker at 314-355-2374 or at Granite City High School 451-5808.

Hendrickson, John Moad, Tim Hogan, Jamie Hogan, Mark Bowen, Greco, Todd Hinterser, Richie Wilson, Rich Takmanian, Dan Partney, Mark Begando, Tim Black, Tom Senecyn, Kory Burton, Joe Wallace, Rick Daily, Brian Harshany and Randy Stedman. DePew said this week also has commitments from Dan Patterson, a 1981 Granite City North graduate, and Matt Roe, a former Granite City High School player who played at Eckert College in Florida.

The team has until July 1, to add or subtract from the roster with a maximum roster of 24.

"There will be lots of finagling going on," said DePew. "That's because there are plenty of question marks among the players now in the roster. Wallace is completing his freshman year at Oklahoma State, but where he ends up this summer is anybody's guess. DePew doesn't think either Hinterser (Austin Peay University) or Wilson (Illinois College) will play here this summer."

Office filed the game and Erik Lewis dunked one down the right-field line to score Reeves.

"Coach Pile would be proud of us," said Stegmeyer in reference to the Edwardsville coach who once admired the Warriors' ability to get blop hits. Pile referred to them as "Granite City hits."

"They were at it again in the fifth. Marc Patton singled, Jason Masfield reached on an error and Stephens walked. Then Nordstrom blooped a Granite City hit to right to make it 3-1. Reeves then lined a single to right-center to plate two more and chase Sigman off the mound."

"Ryan is always in the middle of everything," said Stegmeyer. "He's been our steadiest player all year."

Reeves and Partney are battling for the team RBI lead. Reeves' two-run single gave him 27 to Partney's 26, but that nearly changed again as reliever Tom Buss. Partney hit a towering shot left, but Ryan Burks over the collapsible fence to make the catch, costing Partney a three-run homer.

Warrior tennis team on a roll

ALTON — The Warrior tennis team beat Alton and Civic Memorial in a tri-meet Saturday, then beat McCluer North 5-2 on Monday to run its winning streak to five and improve to 8-4 in dual meets.

The netters edged the Redbirds 5-4 behind four singles wins. Raffi Karbian won Morgan McAlone 6-0, 6-3 at No. 1. Sami Kumar beat Jamie Sherry 6-1, 6-1 at No. 4. John Carmody topped Tad Middleton 6-1, 7-6 at No. 5, and John Gilmore beat Kirk Livingston at No. 6. The No. 1 doubles team of Karbian and Dan Debert outlasted Carroll and Steve Dean 6-4, 2-6, 6-0 to clinch the dual meet.

Each victory for Karbian and Debert means more important as the seedings for the sectional approach.

"I think we've got a one or a two seed right now," said Karbian. "We still have Alton to play (Tuesday), and if we play them tough we have a good chance at a No. 1 seed."

The Warriors followed the close win over Alton by blasting CM 8-1. Singles winners were Karbian, Gilmore, Kumar and Greg Weckman in straight sets. Debert and Carmody also won. Scott Portell and Gilmore teamed to win at No. 1 singles. The Kumar/Carmody duo won as well.

Granite City couldn't have picked a better time to start a winning streak. The Southwestern Conference Meet is in Belleville this weekend, then the Belleville Sectional is May 17-18.

"We were counting on these four wins anyway," said coach Allen Lobdell. "It's nice to build that momentum near the end of the year."

ing one from Lewis and Clark," said DePew. "We'll have enough to play Sunday."

Lewis and Clark's season is over, but all the other college players won't be available for a while yet. Partney, a senior at GCHS, can't play until the high school season ends.

"We might not be quite as strong as last year without Mike and Tommy in the lineup," said DePew. "But we also have added some guys who really want to play. They aren't guys who are coming off letdowns from the pros."

It Takes More Than Just Sampling Inspection to Control Quality

If you are involved in quality control for a manufacturing or industrial organization, you'll want to attend this tutorial on Quality Control. Topics will include determining if your process is capable of producing quality products, developing control charts, sampling methods, Taguchi Philosophy and preparing for a quality audit.

Sykes and Daria Bazzell had Granite City's hits. The Lady Warriors got the first two runners aboard in the seventh. But Bazzell was doubled off second on Charlene Pearman's fly ball and Daria Mayhall was out stealing to end the game.

"I take the blame for the two misuses in the seventh, but I was displeased with our baserunning as a whole," said Hutchings.

Hutchings is now in the real rebuilding stage as he looks to 1992.

Pearman will be the shortstop for the remainder of the season," he said. "I'm going to keep Tiffany at third. I'd like to make it where we don't lose all our starters every year. I'd like to have it so we only replace a few key players every year instead of the seven we had to replace this year."

NOTES: Granite City hosts East St. Louis today, then the Granite City Tournament is Saturday. The Lady Warriors play Hardin Calhoun at 10 a.m. while Roxana and Wood River play at the same time. The losers meet on Diamond 7 and the winners play on Diamond 8. Those games will start a half hour after the first games are over.

AND THE WINNER IS: Randy Crider of Granite City is presented with a 12-by-16-inch framed oil painting by Linda Harris, owner of Linda's Gallery. Crider won the painting as part of a promotion for the gallery, which has moved to larger space at 2802 Madison Ave. The new location will feature a wider selection of local art, prints and oil paintings and a larger custom framing area.

Nurses receive ACLS certification

St. Elizabeth Medical Center registered nurses Joni Garner, Carol Hayes, Crystal East and Bonnie Grupe are the latest Critical Care and Acute Medical Care associates to pass the Advanced Cardiac Life Support test.

The ACLS test is sponsored by the American Heart Association and is offered to nurses, paramedics and others involved in life-saving.

The test covers code management, choking, drowning and cardiac trauma situation.

"This test is a good way for the nurses to experience professional growth and enhance their performance in code situations," said Kathy Gauen, CCU supervisor.

According to Bonnie Grupe, CCU nurse, the ACLS is a benefit for anyone dealing with emergency and trauma situations.

"There are many different types of health-care workers who take this test, from paramedics to critical care nurses," Grupe said.

"It is a positive step in becoming more prepared during cardiac arrest situations. Taking the exam enhances and adds to the knowledge of the critical care nurse. I think all nurses involved in trauma and emergency care should take it."

Although the test is not required, there now are 10 nurses at SEMC with ACLS certification.

It now lasts up to five years longer.

Americans live longer nowadays. Up to five years longer, says one study, than in 1970. One reason is that people know more about reducing their risk of heart disease. And we've helped. This year the AHA will invest more than $70 million in cardiovascular research and organize 2.7 million volunteers to go out and spread the word. GCHS to hold Fine Arts Festival May 16

The art and band departments at Granite City Senior High School will honor senior class members during the annual "Fine Arts Festival" from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday, May 16.

The art department will use all three art rooms to display work from this entire school year by freshmen, sophomores and junior students.

Graduating seniors, with majors in art will each have their own displays set up in the main hallway. The senior displays will be displaying work from all four years at the high school. The senior art majors are Jennifer Aubuchon, Lee Baker, Shawn Buckingham, Brian Kershaw, Nathan McClain, Jim Scott, Christopher Steiner and Yung Mi Suh.

The art show is free and will be open throughout the evening so the art can be viewed both before and after the concert.

For the music portion of the Fine Arts Festival, the concert band will perform at 7:30 p.m. a wide variety of musical works, including "Rituaile," "Handel in the Stand," "Grand Serenade" and "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

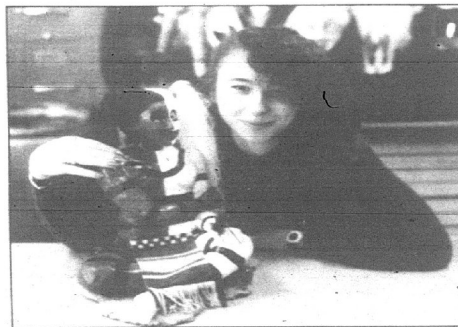

Appearing with the band will be St. Louis trumpet/cornet soloist Robert Ceccerini. Ceccerini will perform the solos "Napoli," "Carnival of Venice" and "Rhapsody for Flugelhorn" and "Symphonic Band."

The band will also honor its graduating senior members: Angela Alexander, Allison Dumoulin, James Holmes III, Ann Joyce, T. Andrew Lalor, Amos LaNour, Craig Leavelle, Julia Mehlke, Brigitta Modlin, Dianne Oliver, Amie Parker, Rachael Parrish, Daniel Pearson, Kimberly Schefke, Sarah Stone, Krista Sullivan and Patricia Webb.

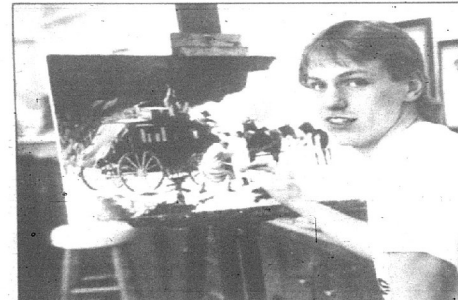

A number of special awards will also be presented during the recognition segment of the concert.

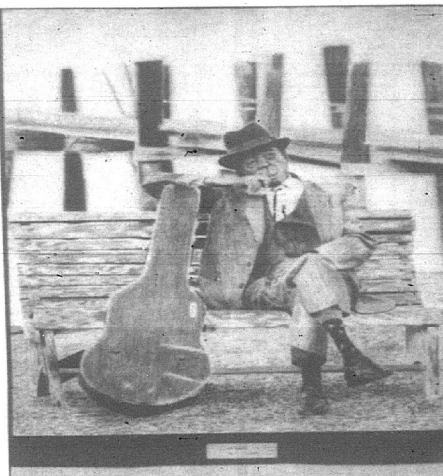

SENIOR NATHAN MCCLAIN displays one of his many award-winning works that will be on display during the GCHS Fine Arts Festival.

CATHERINE ALEXANDER shows her terracotta sculpture of an Indian clown.

LEE BAKER finishes one of his paintings.

Video magazine looks at international music scene

By Mason Wiley
Correspondent

The underground hip-hop house music scene is the subject of "Dance International Video Magazine, Issue 3" (1991, BMG, $12.98; available also at record stores and grocery markets). It takes a look that hops from London to New Jersey to Vienna to Bratislava, Czechoslovakia.

Fans of music videos needn't worry about the foreign material, since this celebration of the music resembles an episode of MTV Music News, with jumpy graphics and video tricks. Twelve stories are covered, beginning with London-based singer Mica Paris, whose album "So Good" went double platinum when she was 19. Now a wiser 21, Paris says, "I no longer see it necessary to be on the charts every two minutes."

London's Tam Tam Records receives a hearty promotion as an out-front dance-label making the hottest hip-hop/soul disks. Among its recordings is the experimental music of an "Electro-British outfit" known as The Stepford Wives. We learn just how open the company's submission policy is when it is revealed that one of the label's artists, simply dropped off an unsolicited rap tape she had made in her bedroom with her friends. In Brighton, England, a nightclub called The Zap Club hosts a monthly Monday night party thrown by the peripatetic DJs of the Tonka Mobile Sound System, who move the shindig to the beach "right under the noses of the police, when the Zap closes its doors at 2:00 a.m."

The focus then switches to the United States, to New Jersey, defined for the international audience as "next to Manhattan."

In the 1960s, New Jersey had the worst race riots in U.S. history. Despite this, our lead-in, Jersey appears on the video to be a swinging place. In Newark, there's a space called Club Zanzibar, run, on certain nights, by KISS-FM (New York) radio DJ Tony Humphries as "an outlet for new people in-house music."

Nu Groove Records is called "the hottest underground label in America, producing disks that sell in London for over 100 pounds each. Then there's a diva known as Adeva, who says of her work on Smak Production, "I consider myself a part of the Jersey sound." She predicts: "I really think dance music, house music, club music, whatever you want to call it, is going to take the United States by storm." Although she's not big here yet, Adeva is a smash in London.

For an earlier video incarnation of popular music, there's "The Pat & Angela Video Songbook" (1991, View Video, $24.95; 1-800-843-9843), a 45-minute compilation of 18 numbers from the country/pop singer's old TV show, which aired on CBS during the 1954-55 season. Connoisseurs of '50s stage and costume design will savor these clips along with Page's fans, as the former Clara Ann Fowler of Claremore, Oklahoma, sings her hit in one glamorous get-up after another.

In a smartly tailored gray suit topped off with hat, pearls and a black stole, Page is every inch the Parisian sophisticate wailing "How Much Is That Doggie in the Window?" She croons "I Went to Your Wedding," in a stylish sitting room overlooking a painted church. After turning the wedding invitation over and over, the song ends when she tears it up and drops it in the garbage (and misses). She's a chic housewife preparing a meal in a spotless and efficient kitchen for "You Call Everybody Darling." The gilt candelabra that dresses the set for "Smiles" could have been borrowed from Liberace, and, naturally, an antebellum hall, serves Page's biggest sell, "Tennessee Waltz." The video quality of the old shows is excellent.

"Bonfire of the Vanities" (1990, Warner, $29.95): Tom Wolfe, author of the book this film is taken from, said he would have cast Chevy Chase in the lead as the ill-fated Sherman McCoy. That's something you might have fun imagining while watching Tom Hanks do what he can in this curious miscellany. Director Brian De Palma can't do a few stunning moments, like the opening shot from New York City's Chrysler Building, but they'll be best on video (try the letterbox format for best results).

Mason Wiley is a contributor to City Limits, Time, Premiere, Cosmopolitan and The New York Times.
